In particular, I advise clients in the area of stock corporation law and represent listed and non-listed companies both in and out of court.

After having completed parts of my legal clerkship at Fieldfisher, I returned to Germany after a three-month stay in the course of my legal clerkship at an American commercial law firm in New York and joined Fieldfisher again.

I completed my studies with a focus on corporate and commercial law at the Free University of Berlin. Already during my studies and also during my legal clerkship in Berlin, I was able to gain experience in the field of economics by working for various management consultancies such as KPMG AG.

Since my study stay in Norway, I have kept in touch with my Scandinavian colleagues and am still improving my Norwegian language skills.

I am a member of the German-Nordic Lawyers Association.

I advise my clients in German and English.
