I am a Senior Associate in the Technology, Outsourcing and Privacy working across the Dublin and Manchester offices and have a real interest in helping clients develop and negotiate commercial agreements to assist with their technology and outsourcing needs. I have been advising clients in the technology space for over 8 years.

My work involves leading on cutting-edge deals across a number of sectors and industries including energy and utilities, food, education, retail and financial and professional services, both in the UK and on an international basis.

For example, I recently assisted Ernst & Young on the technology aspects of its deal to acquire Riverview Law, the "new law" provider, which has been hailed as a significant moment in the legal services market.

I have also spent time working in-house alongside clients so am able to readily appreciate the pressures and challenges that clients face.
