Professional Profile and Bio

Jochen is an international trade lawyer with over 15 years of experience in advising clients in a broad range of international trade and regulatory issues under EU and Member State legislation, as well as the application of WTO and other international agreements.

He has a particular focus on EU and third country trade defence instruments (anti-dumping, anti-subsidy and safeguards) where I work closely with EU industries, such as the bicycle industry, the glass fibre reinforcements industry, the paper industry, the chemical industry, the metal industry and the solar industry, to protect fair trade and the level playing field in the EU.

For instance, in cooperation with the bicycle and e-bike industries, the team has saved over 100,000 EU jobs and created over 5,000 new ones in less than six months in this exciting green mobility industry.

He also advises on export controls and sanctions, and customs and regulatory law.

For example, he assists clients in implementing internal export control and sanctions compliance programmes to trade safely with their global business partners; and I devise duty savings, recovery, classification and valuation programmes to help companies optimise cost.

His work is recognised by i.a. Chambers, Expert Guide, Legal 500, and WhoisWho Legal.

Jochen is fluent in German and English and have a basic understanding of French.
