I have participated in labour force layoffs, collective bargaining negotiations, due diligence, advice and client training. Likewise, I have repeatedly led legal representation in all types of procedures in labour and social security matters. Specifically, my experience is based on the following matters: employment contracts, substantial modification of working conditions, collective bargaining, individual and collective dismissals, special labour relations, productive decentralisation, corporate successions and sanctions, among others.

Throughout my professional experience, I have worked with companies including the security, technology, private banking, funeral, handling, call centre and courier sectors.
