I am a specialist in the area of privacy and information law and provide practical and commercial advice on a full range of data protection issues affecting the UK and international businesses.

I have an extensive range of experience in privacy, GDPR compliance programs, outsourcing, systems integration, telecommunications, e-commerce, software development, licensing and technology. In addition, I am a Certified Information Privacy Professional (Europe) (CIPP/E) and have a Bachelor of Laws and Bachelor of Information Systems from The University of Melbourne.

I have completed a number of successful secondments including for two of the UK's leading telecommunications providers and most recently at a global real estate investment company focusing on GDPR compliance. These secondments and my background in commercial technology have given me valuable insight and understanding of the demands and overall commercial priorities for clients, particularly in the context of data protection issues.

Outside of work I volunteer for the Royal Osteoporosis Society and advocate for research and improved clinical outcomes for those with rare bone conditions.
