I advise French and foreign clients (both public and private) in all areas of public law, in particular in the fields of infrastructure, energy and transport, as well as public finances.

I graduated from the Institut de droit public des affaires (IDPA) and holds a Master 2 in Public Business Law and a Master 2 in law and governance of public financial systems.

I was admitted to the Paris Bar in 2019. Before joining Fieldfisher, I worked in the Public Law/Projects department of an international law firm in Casablanca.

I speak French and English.
