My particular expertise is advising clients on governance and risk & compliance projects under Law 231/01 across many sectors including industry, construction and energy, and assisting their supervisory bodies.

I am currently a Chairman and member of several supervisory bodies pursuant to Law 231/01.

Furthermore, I regularly deal with commercial contract issues and with M&A, private equity, venture capital and real estate transactions. I work on both national and international transactions. Moreover, I assist my clients in commercial and insolvency law litigation and arbitration, an area in which I have in-depth and extensive experience.

My clients include domestic and international companies and private clients. My work ranges from advising domestic companies on joint venture projects to advising those acquiring shares in limited companies by venture capital, and providing general corporate, litigation and commercial advice to various midsize companies.

I publish on corporate law and legal risk & compliance issues and speak regularly at workshops and conferences on Law 231/01 and commercial law.

Before joining Fieldfisher I was a senior associate at an international tax and law firm for ten years and corporate and litigation lawyer at one of the Big Four accounting firm for four years. I also worked for the Italian Antitrust Authority for one year.

I advise my clients in Italian and English.
