I advise national and international banks, financial services providers, payment institutions, FinTechs, funds initiators, asset management companies and other companies affected by financial regulatory law on all matters relating to financial regulation.

My practice is comprised of assisting clients in banking, investment services and payment services supervisory law, including investment law and money laundering law. I also have particular expertise in banking and finance law as well as in banking litigation.

Prior to joining Fieldfisher I worked for a leading UK law firm and a big German law firm.

I advise my clients in German and English.
