My portfolio covers all aspects of EU and UK competition and regulatory law, including large and small scale investigations and compliance audits, dawn raids, dominance issues, restrictive practices, merger control, distribution/'route to market' strategies and consumer law issues.

I have advised on many EU and UK competition and regulatory matters, often complex/high profile in nature, including an international cartel involving a global seatbelt manufacturer, a UK cartel in the construction industry, managing EU distribution and reselling arrangements for suppliers of branded goods, advising on dominance issues for household brands, conducting an EU-wide compliance audit for a global coffee company and advising on numerous regulatory and consumer issues for (online) businesses.

My client base ranges from small enterprises through to multi-national corporates and large trade associations, across a broad range of sectors. I have particular expertise in regulated sectors including food and beverage/retail, leisure/travel and life sciences.

I regularly deliver client training/workshops on key risk issues. Client feedback from one of my sessions was that it was "the best training ever received on any topic". I have a Distinction in the EU Competition Law Diploma (one of 4% of candidates), a Distinction in the Diploma in Legal Practice and an LLB (Hons) Law (2:1, 69%).
