I advise these bodies on all of their functions, both under domestic and EU law. This can include investigations and enforcement, prosecutions, complaints and discipline, litigation, registration and accreditation. I also advise on governance issues and provide training to Councils, Boards, Committees and staff of public and regulatory bodies.

Clients value the clear and practical advice that I provide, and the calmness that I bring to challenging situations.

I lead a team of five solicitors and we advise across sectors including education, health and social care, professional services, aviation, and charities.

In my spare time I enjoy playing or watching most sports, and I am a keen Liverpool supporter.
