I am a specialist medical negligence lawyer who joined Fieldfisher in 2018. Having qualified in 2014, I have since gained valuable experience through my practice at leading Claimant law firms.

I have secured a number of significant settlements on behalf of clients in claims involving General Practitioners, NHS Trusts and private doctors. I have also represented bereaved families at inquests into the deaths of their loved ones.

I act for clients who have suffered wide-ranging injuries; including birth related injuries, strokes, spinal cord injuries, cardiac injuries, amputations and general surgical injuries. I am praised by clients for my empathic nature and my handling of delicate and sensitive issues.

I volunteer with AvMA, a leading patient safety charity. I also sit on the committee of the Association of Women Solicitors as a passionate advocate of equality and diversity across the legal profession.
