I provide tax advice to Italian and multinational companies operating in the industrial, commercial, service and financial sectors.

I have significant experience in dealing with the tax implications of international and structured finance transactions, due diligence and corporate reorganizations.

Before joining Fieldfisher, after more than ten years of freelance professional experience, I consolidated my experience in the tax department of a "Big Four" accounting and tax firm in Milan.

I have been listed on the register of certified public accountants and accounting experts since 1989 and on the list of statutory auditors since 1995.

I advise clients in Italian and English.
