I advise national and international companies, credit institutions, insurance companies and other financial services institutions comprehensively in the area of banking law and the law of capital markets.

I studied at Heidelberg University and completed my Master's Degree in "International Financial Law" at King's College in London in 2013. Prior to joining Fieldfisher I worked for two law firms specialized in banking law and litigation, an international law firm and a Scottish life insurance company.

I have been admitted as a lawyer in 2012 and qualified as a Solicitor in England and Wales in 2015.

I advise our clients in German, English and Farsi.
