I completed a degree in Law and later a Master's Degree in Stock Market and Financial Markets at the Institute of Stock Market Studies (IEB) in Madrid, before starting to prepare for the opposition to the State Treasury Inspectors Corps at the Center for Financial Studies (CEF) and in Garrido Estudios.

After being opposed to the State Treasury Inspectors Corps, I decided to develop my activity in the private sphere, exercising tax advice in offices in Barcelona and Madrid for more than 7 years, advising both SMEs and large multinationals.

In addition to providing recurring and proactive tax advice to clients, I have on numerous occasions defended the interests of taxpayers against the Tax Inspectorate both at the state, regional and local levels. Likewise, I have participated in the design of the international tax structure of foreign and Spanish multinationals, both in optimization in Spain and in their international expansion.
