I advise clients on a range of areas spanning technology, cybersecurity and privacy and intellectual property, specialising in dispute resolution. I have experience advising large multinational clients on cybersecurity matters, particularly in relation to claims relating to data breaches. I have represented clients in the English courts on various high-profile intellectual disputes including Original Beauty v G4k Fashion [2021] EWHC 294 (Ch).

I also have strong experience in the media industry, having work in in-house roles with multiple broadcasters as well as a multi-national Communications conglomerate.
