I am Head of Dispute Resolution at Fieldfisher and a partner in our London office specialising in complex litigation and arbitration.

I have broad experience in commercial disputes, domestically and internationally. My key expertise is in commercial/corporate disputes, technical disputes, domestic and international trade disputes and defamation.

Representative work includes:

- Leading a large cross-border team in a natural resources dispute worth $200m+ in the London High Court involving urgent injunctive relief
- Acting in LCIA arbitration proceedings in London concerning the sale of a cutting edge technology company.
- Conducting proceedings worth $50m+ in the Commercial Court and Court of Appeal in London concerning the acquisition of a renowned copper mine.
- Leading a team in a $40m dispute in the London Commercial Court arising out of allegations of fraud and corruption in Russia

- Conducting €10m+ ICC arbitration proceedings in Vienna concerning delay in a major transnational electricity project
- Acting for a UK regulator in £20m+ proceedings concerning an alleged breach of statutory duty/misfeasance in public office

I have been published in The Lawyer, New Law Journal, Entertainment Law Review and Solicitors Journal on a variety of litigation and arbitration issues as well as being interviewed by both the Guardian and the Independent on legal matters. I have appeared live on BBC television and radio as well as speaking at both the British Turkish Lawyers Association and the American Bar Association.

What others say...

“ Colin Gibson is a dynamic, excellent head of department, who is very good on the detail, but glosses over irrelevancies to concentrate on the big picture ”
