I work closely with international household-name companies based in the US, advising on their global privacy strategies, management of data subject rights requests, data breaches, international data transfers, privacy notices, handling regulator queries and investigations.

I also help clients to anticipate the changing European economy, factoring in changes for Brexit continuity planning and changing international trade relationships.

I have significant experience in both contentious and non-contentious advice employment advice. In particular I advise U.S. headquartered companies on all aspects of employment law from day-to-day queries, the practical implications of TUPE, performance management issues, discrimination cases, and large scale redundancy and dismissal processes. I have extensive experience of acting for clients in relation to Employment Tribunal claims.
