My clients are medium and large manufacturing and utilities companies with businesses in galvanization, chemical, construction and transport.

I am a member of a number of Boards of Statutory Auditors of companies operating in various sectors, including public-owned companies. I am also technical expert for the Court and draft technical accounting opinion.

I developed my experience as a junior partner at an accounting firm in Venice where, in addition to providing advice and assistance to my clients, I was responsible for coordinating internal activities including staff training on changes in the tax system.

I have a degree in Economics from Venice University and have been entered on the Register of Italian Certified Public Accountants, Auditors and Advisors since 1999.
