I have previously worked in-house for several semi-state organisations and also for central government in the areas of property, planning, strategic infrastructure development, judicial review and human rights. I was previously the head of a quasi-judicial statutory appeals body.

I also provide bespoke training courses for clients on many topics relating to regulation and in particular on the issue of decision making.

I am the author of Investigating Unregistered Title published by Bloomsbury Professional and I am also a contributory author to the Law Society of Ireland Conveyancing Manual published by Oxford University Press.
