I advise regulatory bodies on the implementation of statutory obligations under their governing legislation and other legislation arising (both national and EU). This includes advising on statutory investigations, registration and recognition of professional qualifications. I assist clients by drafting rules, regulations, standards, and procedures in relation to the registration and licensing requirements of regulatory bodies (including interpretation of complex EU Directives).

I appear on behalf regulatory bodies at fitness to practise and professional conduct committees and before the superior courts for judicial review proceedings, emergency applications, confirmation applications and statutory appeals.

I have advised numerous public bodies and their committees on their general obligations under the GDPR, the Data Protection Act and the Freedom of Information Act, including, drafting privacy policies, advice on data retention periods, advice on the implications of Brexit and GDPR, and drafting regulations under s38 of the Data Protection Act. I have also advised on Data Access and Freedom of Information requests.

I have completed a number of secondments across our regulatory clients, providing onsite advice on legal issues. My experience in financial regulation has involved me working on-site with a client on a large scale investigation into breaches of contractual and other regulatory standards.
