I have particular expertise in medical devices law, healthcare compliance, public procurement law in the healthcare sector, medical product advertising law, professional law for physicians and dentists and statutory health insurance law.

I also give legal and strategic advice on collaboration between manufacturers of medical devices and healthcare professionals, promotional activities addressed to the public and physicians, as well as regulatory issues surrounding clinical trials and observational studies. I represent clients before national authorities and courts.

I have published numerous articles regarding statutory nursing care insurance, as well as an article on the new legal basis for CE marking of medical devices in Germany.

I advise my clients in both German and English.

In my spare time I enjoy long walks with my dog in the local countryside.
